A Source of Advocacy and Professional Advice

When you work with Moving Station, your dedicated Personal Relocation Manager will provide you with expert advice through every step of the complex home sale process:

- Thoroughly research and vet two qualified real estate agents for you to interview
- Help you determine correct home pricing with a proprietary Comparative Market Analysis
- Objectively discuss preparing your home for the market so you don't spend money unnecessarily
- Review the overall presentation including effective photographs to highlight your home's features
- Facilitate communication with the real estate agent, particularly hard conversations
- Serve as your resource and guide as offers come in and you negotiate with buyers
- Provide you with additional resources for downsizing and moving your household goods, should you need them

The Proof is in the Results

- 98% of the homes listed through Moving Station sell
- Average days on market are 54 compared to the industry average of 121
- Homes sold through Moving Station achieve a sale price within <1% variance of predicted likely sale price

About Us

Moving Station, the trusted source in senior relocation, helps families transition homes during a very stressful time. Moving Station focuses on seniors' needs and timeframes as they prepare to move into their new homes. Moving Station is independent of real estate brokerages and moving-related vendors to act as the senior's relocation advocate.
